

ECOOCENE

CAPPADOCIA JOURNAL OF ENVIRONMENTAL HUMANITIES

Volume 3/Issue 1/June 2022

Storying Ecocenes

Nature Haiku; Disaster Haiku

Craig Santos Perez

University of Hawaii, USA
craigsantosperez@gmail.com
ORCID: 0000-0002-4723-2795

Perez, Craig Santos. 2022. "Nature Haiku." Ecocene: Cappadocia Journal of Environmental Humanities 3, no. 1 (June): 77. <https://doi.org/10.46863/ecocene.69>.

Perez, Craig Santos. 2022. "Disaster Haiku." Ecocene: Cappadocia Journal of Environmental Humanities 3, no. 1 (June): 78. <https://doi.org/10.46863/ecocene.70>.

Poetry/ Received: 17.03.2022 /Accepted: 29.03.2022

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

Nature Haiku; Disaster Haiku

by Craig Santos Perez

About the Author

Craig Santos Perez is an indigenous Chamoru from the Pacific Island of Guam. He is the co-editor of six anthologies and the author of five poetry books. He is a professor in English at the University of Hawaii at Manoa.

Nature Haiku; Disaster Haiku

Craig Santos Perez

Nature Haiku

Nature is not a proper

noun

nature is an assemblage

of verbs

Disaster Haiku

after the eruption of Hunga Tonga-Hunga Ha'apai, January 2022

the media
covers us only after volcanic ash covers...